

FEELING UNSAFE: LAW AS EMOTIONAL REGULATION IN THE DEVELOPMENT AND DEPLOYMENT OF AI-ENABLED MEANS AND METHODS OF WARFARE

MAISON DE LA PAIX, AUDITORIUM A2, CHEMIN EUGÈNE RIGOT 2, GENEVA | 21 FEBRUARY 2025, 09:30-11:00

© ADOBE

This panel event explores the role that emotions play in the development, deployment, and regulation of artificial intelligence in warfare. This conversation with scholars working in the field of international humanitarian law is informed by broader theoretical perspectives, as well as by concrete practical applications of AI in the contemporary battlefield.

WELCOME AND INTRODUCTIONS:

Anne Saab

Associate Professor of International Law, Geneva Graduate Institute; PI on SNF-funded project 'Emotions and International Law'

PANELISTS:

Nehal Bhuta

Professor of Public International Law, University of Edinburgh

Anna Greipl

PhD researcher, Geneva Graduate Institute and researcher, Geneva Academy

Rebecca Mignot Mahdavi

Assistant Professor of Law, Sciences Po Law School

Aliki Semertzi

Postdoctoral researcher, SNF-funded project 'Emotions and International Law', Geneva Graduate Institute

MODERATOR & DISCUSSANT:

Erica Harper

Head of Research and Policy Studies, Geneva Academy

REGISTRATION

We kindly ask you to register here:

<https://bit.ly/4aJp5YW>

